Shifts in West Asia

Iran's assertion of its regional dominance creates a lessening of the power of the Sunni and Arab states, leading to a diminishing of American and Western hegemony, and laying the ground for a new West Asia. page 13

Taxation of Gig Workers

Rather than being administratively neutral, the tax policy must account for income volatility, the absence of social-security protections, and the asymmetrical bargaining power inherent in platform-based work. page 26

Mechanisation and Labour Use

A longitudinal study in the semi-arid region of Maharashtra finds that labour use is not decreasing much despite intensified mechanisation, but female labour could be displaced due to mechanisation, with the increased use of weedicides and sprayers. page 51

Primacy of Rights

Converting fundamental rights into a quid pro quo for performance of duties is not only imprudent but also unconstitutional for being violative of the doctrine of basic structure. page 10

Assam–Arunachal Border Dispute

The issue today lies not in merely acknowledging Arunachali or tribal perspectives, but in reconciling conflicting claims and interests within a federal
